The Fenian Trials.

Tonowro, Nov. 10.—The court met at 10 o'clock, and the Fenian trials were resumed.

The court was crowded with spectators, amongst whom were noticed many strangers.

Mesers. R. A. Harrison, John Patterson, and J. McNab represented the Crown.

The first prisoner placed in the dock was John Coonery.

Coonery.

Mr. McKenzie moved to quash the indictment on the same grounds as that ruled on in the case of the Queen versus O'Neil and others.

The prisoner then pleaded not guilty, and stated the case of the Queen versus of the pleaded not guilty.

The prisoner then pleaded not guilty, and stated that he was not ready for trial.

Patrick Keating was next placed at the bar. He is about 23 years of age, and his appearance denoted that he had moved in a respectable sphere of life. He pleaded not guilty. Mr. McKenzie made a similar motion in this trial.

His Lordship asked the prisoner if he was ready for his trial, and he responded in the allimnive. Mr. McKenzie then said that his case would have to stand, as he was not ready to proceed with it. The prisoner was then removed.

The case of the Queen vz. William Hayden was then taken up. Mr. Harrison persisted that the case should be immediately tried.

Mr. McKenzie submitted that he was entitled to a further postponement, but the prisoner was directed to be grought in.

The prisoner is about 20 years of age.

Mr. McKenzie moved to quash the Indictment, and the prisoner, by direction of his counsel, plead not guilty.

The jury was then aworn.

A number of witnesses for the prosecution were examined, and testified to having seen the prisoner examined, and testified to having seen the prisoner examined, and testified to having seen the prisoner examined with a rifle. They further testified that the prisoner demanded money of them, and stated that the Saxon rule was extinct, and that he had come to take Canada.

Mr. McKenzie read several affidavits as to the prisoner good character, and then proceeded to address the jury for the defence. He complained that he had been forced into the trial by the Grown before he was ready to proceed, as much as he had no witness present. He continued to argue that although the evidence was of a strong character against the prisoner, and possibly might be construed by the jury as exceedingly prejudicial, still there was nothing to show that he came over here for the purpose of levying war against Her Majesty. He cortainly did come here and acted in an exceedingly wrong manner in plundering British subjects.

He concluded his speech by stating he could offer no pallistion for the p

Departure of General Sherman and Minister Campbell—Their Em-barkation from New York on Saturday.

Agreeably to the official programme an-ounced by authority in the REPUBLICAN OR Friday last, Gen. SHRBMAN and Minister CAMPBELL sailed from New York for Mexico on Saturday. The New York Evening Post refers to the subject as follows:

refers to the subject as follows:

Major General Sherman embarked this afternoon on board the United States frigate Susquehanna for Vera Cruz, in Mexico, having been ordered thither to take care of the interests of the United States. He was accompanied by Col. Audenreid, of his staff; and Mr. Campbell, the United States Minister, with Mr. Plumb, the secretary for the Minister, were also on board.

General Sherman breakfasted this morning with Mr. William Scott, his cousin, at the residence of the latter in Twenty-third street. It was a very social occasion, in which Collector Smythe and his family were invited to participate and were present.

There are, he added, thirty-four millions of sovereigns in this country who are opposed to the presence of any more emperors in this part of the world.

A Government steamer was tendered for the use of the General and many friends who accompanied him as far as the Narrows. The vessel was moored at Whitchall, where a large crowd gathered, and many of those present very cordially greeted the General on his arrival.

About thirty persons went on board the boat and sailed down the bay. Gen. Anderson, Gen. Van Vliet, Surveyor Wakeman and Mr. Jerome and several other prominent citizens were among the company. No

George D. Prentice. Mr. Paratice, of the Louisville Journal, thanks the members of the press for their kind notices during his late serious illness in kind notices during his late serious illness in the eloquent language following:

"Our heartfelt thanks are due to very many of our brethren of the press for their very kind notices of us during our late illness. Their sympathy soothed and cheered and strengthened us. It seemed to throw a calm and lovely light upon the world and make us wish to linger still among our fellowmen. There is much that is beautiful and holy and hallowing in sickness. Its influences are purer and better than those of health. Indeed, the feebleness of the body is often the health of the soul. We see and bear what we may not in the season of our physical strength. Myriad spirits of, the air flutter over the dividing line between two worlds, uttering to mortal beings the tones they have learned in Heaven. As we move downward upon the sombre and mysterious pathway that leads to the door of the tores downward upon the sombre and mysterious downward upon the sombre and mysterious pathway that leads to the door of the tomb, we behold, as from the depths of a shadowy well or cavern, the pale screnities of floating stars, all invisible in the glare and sunshine of the upper air, and their sacred and blessed light need never fade from the spirit."

street. It was a very social occasion, in which Collector Smythe and his family were invited to participate and were present.

He was rapidly carried to Pier No. 1, North river, where a little steamer was in readiness to receive him.

At half past one o'clock this afternoon the General went to the Sub-Treasury, accompanied by one or two friends. He remained a short time with Gen. Dix, Assistant Treasurer Van Dyck, and others.

He had not been recognized when he entered the Treasury. On his departure his face was partly hidden by the wide brind his soft felt hat, and wearing his cloak closely wrapped about him, he quietly entered a carriage, and so escaped without public observation.

A flerwards Gen. Sherman was at the Metropolitan Hotel, where the final preparations for the voyage was made.

A considerable crowd of persons, among whom were many personal friends of the General, had assembled at the pier, and entered the steamer with him.

Thence he was carried to the Susquehanna. Gen. Sherman's visit to Mexico will not probably be of long duration. He may remain there ninety days, possibly less.

In regard to what he will do, nothing can be said. Maximilian's "unpopularity," he declared before he started, takes him to Mexico.

There are, he added, thirty-four millions of sovereigns in this country who are opposed to the presence of any more emperors in this part of the world.

A Government steamer was tendered for the use of the General and many friends who accompanied him as far as the Narrows.
